

About the Design Build Institute of America

The Design-Build Institute of America (DBIA) was founded in 1993 to provide a voice for design-build practitioners, to advocate best practices, to create and disseminate educational information, and to furnish advice and support to facility owners and users. Its membership includes design-builders, construction contractors, design professionals, subcontractors, representatives of government agencies, academics and other professionals.

Who Uses Design Build?

Design-Build is the project delivery system of choice on more than 50 percent of the non-residential construction projects in the European Community and more than 70 percent in Japan. In the United States, the private sector's use of design-build has been increasing during the past thirty years, and is found in a wide array of commercial, institutional and industrial applications. In the U.S. sector, the federal government, as well as many states and local governments, employ design-build contracting for a significant percentage of their building programs.

Kapolei Golf Club

Amateur golfers will revel in following the footsteps of great champions such as Greg Norman and Annika Sorenstam at Kapolei Golf Club, which hosted the LPGA Tour's Ladies "Hawaiian Open" from 1996 to 2001 and PGA Champions Tour "Pacific Links Championship" from 2012 to 2014.

Designed by architect Ted Robinson, best known for Sahalee Country Club, Kapolei Golf Club is highly regarded for its magnificent beauty, floral gardens and strategic golf holes. Meandering over 190 rolling acres of a former sugar cane plantation, Kapolei's elevated greens, 80 bunkers and five lakes provide delightful tactical challenges.

Kapolei Golf Club is highly regarded, rating 4 1/2 stars out of five on Golf Digest's Places to Play listing and earning the Honolulu Star Advertiser's People's Choice Award as "Best Course on Oahu" in 2010 and 2014.
