

How LA Metro Implements Design-Build Best Practices in Complex Transit Projects

Tuesday, March 18, 2014

BREAKFAST

7:30am-9:30am at Millennium Biltmore Hotel, LA

PRESENTATION OVERVIEW

LA Metro has utilized the design-build project delivery method for more than a decade and will continue to use design-build to implement critical transportation and transit projects. Currently they have over $6Bil in design-build projects in various stages of procurement, design and construction. K.N. Murthy and Bryan Pennington are senior managers at LA Metro and have extensive experience in implementing design-build contracts for complex heavy civil construction projects. They will discuss how to evaluate the optimal use of design-build and how they procure these large projects. Their transit projects require design excellence, and they will discuss how they maintain an appropriate level of input on the design without accepting unwanted risk. This presentation will be beneficial for both horizontal and vertical D-B projects.

SPEAKERS

Mr. K.N. Murthy

LA Metro Executive Director - Transit Project Delivery
Mr. Murthy is the Executive Director of Transit Project Delivery directing LA Metro's engineering development and construction of transit projects.
